David is self-taught and began quilting in the early 1990's. He loved woodworking and thought of the sewing machine as just another tool he could use. Teresa would get frustrated with having to pick up all the loose threads around the house and didn't become interested in quilting until after a trip to the Houston International Quilt show in 2005. She too became infected with the Quilting Bug and David became her first teacher.

Together they like to exchange ideas for new quilts using both of their skill sets. They love to coteach other quilters whether beginner or experienced and offer several different workshops and programs.

The quote you will find on the website home page is from Simone Signoret and sums up our life. "Chains do not hold a marriage together. It is threads, hundreds of tiny threads which sew people together through the years"
